Aroha Ngata-Whitfield

Dublin, Ireland · aroha.nw@example.ie · linkedin.com/in/aroha-example

Summary

Registered nurse with eleven years in emergency and cardiac care in New Zealand and Ireland. Calm in busy departments, careful with documentation, and used to teaching students and new graduates on shift.

Experience

2020 – Present
Dublin

Clinical Nurse Manager 1, St. Brigid's Hospital — Emergency Department

- Lead a team of 14 nurses on rotating shifts in a department that sees about 230 patients a day.
- Rewrote the triage handover checklist; missed observations at handover fell by half in the next audit.
- Coordinate bed flow with the patient flow team during winter surge periods.
- Precept student nurses from two universities and sign off their competencies.
- Member of the hospital's sepsis working group, presenting audit results each quarter.

2016 – 2020
Auckland

Registered Nurse, Waitemata Heart Centre — Cardiac Ward

- Cared for patients after cardiac surgery and catheter procedures, including telemetry monitoring.
- Taught patients and families about medication and recovery before discharge.
- Helped move the ward from paper charts to electronic observations.
- Covered as shift coordinator on weekends.

2013 – 2016
Hamilton

Graduate and Staff Nurse, Waikato General — Medical Ward

- Completed the new graduate programme and stayed on as staff nurse.
- Looked after up to six patients per shift on a busy medical ward.
- Took part in the falls prevention project on night shifts.

Education and registration

2013 — Bachelor of Nursing, University of Waikato

2019 — Postgraduate Certificate in Emergency Nursing, University of Auckland

Registration — Nursing and Midwifery Board of Ireland; Nursing Council of New Zealand

Skills

Clinical	Triage, ALS, sepsis pathway, telemetry, IV cannulation, wound care, medication safety, patient education, electronic health records
Languages	English (native), Māori (conversational), Irish (beginner)
References
On request	Two references from current and previous nurse managers are available.